

THE SOUL OF BAJA

DIVING MEXICO'S WILDEST WATERS

Baja California Sur is a peninsula where the Pacific Ocean meets the Sea of Cortés, known by Jacques Cousteau as "the aquarium of the world". This region is a sanctuary for marine life, characterized by an ecosystem of unparalleled richness and diversity. It offers virgin beaches, desert landscapes that merge with the sea and exceptional marine fauna. The waters are crystal clear most of the year, with temperatures ranging from 21 to 26°C, and include vibrant coral reefs, caves, and underwater rock formations.
